Red Cross to Seek Million Trained In First Aid Methods

Dr. Martindale Says Over 2,000,000 Qualified Last Year

APPEAL FOR SUPPORT

Urges Hempstead Citizens to Support Roll Call Campaign

In a program designed to reduce the distressing number of accidental deaths the American Red Cross swelled its number of qualified first aiders over the 2,000,000 mark during the past year throughout the country. Dr. J. C. Martindale, chairman of the first aid, Hempstead County chapter, said Thursday in an appeal for greater membership during this year's Roll Call.

Dr. Martindale pointed out that Red Cross instructors trained 350,000 men and women in first aid for the year ending June 30. He added that increased facilities for teaching methods of treating the injured had been provided by the organization to meet the needs of accidental death which every year claims approximately 17,000 lives.

"From 1910 to 1935, the Red Cross trained a million persons in first aid," the local chairman declared. "Increased need for qualified persons to fight accidental death and to prevent serious injury, however, resulted in broadening the program. In the four years that followed, another million were trained, covering the same ground that previously had taken 25 years."

"This year needs are even greater. Farm accidents, accidental deaths in the home and on the highway have created new problems for a reserve of civilians equipped to render emergency service."

Dr. Martindale said that the new Red Cross program, highway first aid and home and farm accident prevention, were originated in 1935 to fight accidents in the home, farm and on the highway.

"In addition to training firemen, police, CCC and WPA workers, and tens of thousands of civilians," Dr. Martindale said, "the Red Cross last year established several hundred highway first aid stations throughout the country, bringing the total number in operation to 5,362. Highway stations are manned by Red Cross trained first aiders, forming part of a nationwide network organized to provide emergency facilities within call of injured motorists."

Noting was not alone in its high incidence of fatal accidents during the last year, he pointed out. Although automobile accidents took a total of 22,400 lives last year, 31,500 fatalities occurred in home accidents during the same period.

"In an effort to prevent accidents in the home and on the farm, the Red Cross carries on a daily program of educating home owners and farm people on hazards that create accidents. Last year, this service of the Red Cross reached more than 10,000,000 homes throughout the nation in an effort to remove the hazards leading to serious injury and accidental death."

"This year, the Red Cross will seek a million more members. Only through strengthened membership can the Red Cross meet more effectively the casualties of suffering in the year to come. I urge the citizens of Hempstead county to again support the Red Cross and help those the Red Cross serves."

The accident occurred near the Roy Stephenson home. Mr. Young, driving alone, was headed north toward Little Rock. The Robins automobile, also headed north, crashed into the rear of the Young car.

"The impact hurled the Young car across a ditch and into a field. Mr. Young was thrown from the front into the rear seat."

Bulgaria on Spot As Pawn Caught Between Nazis, Reds and Allies

Europe Watching Development In Balkan Countries

Germany Fears Her Influence in Bulgarian Government Weakened

TURKS RESIST RUSSIA

Bulgars Hate Turks, Distrust Romanians, Fear the Serbs

What Has Happened:

Bulgarian terrorists — reported to be equipped with weapons from the Bulgarian army—have clashed several times in recent days with Romanian gendarmes in the Dobruja section of Romania.

The Background:

By PROF. THOMAS J. B. WENNER

Written for NEA Service

Eyes of Europe turn to Bulgaria. Since Turkey stood out against demands of the Russians and signed in the allied fold, Berlin has good reason to be strengthened in resisting "drang Nach Osten" and that German influence with the Bulgarian government will be weakened.

The Soviet, it is reported, demanded among other things Turkey's consent to Russia's recapture of Bessarabia and Bulgaria's recapture of the fertile corn and wheat lands of Dobruja, both now held by Romania.

Consequently, one of the important questions now being asked is: Will the Bulgars follow the Turks in deserting their World War allies, or can Bulgaria be used as a German-Russian pawn to counterbalance the recent British-French success in their Turkish alliance?

Balkan Hatreds Get Full Play

Back of the situation making Bulgaria one of the pawns on the chessboard lie five centuries of strife between the five centuries of Muslim misrule recurring Balkan wars, acute economic rivalry and Balkan intrigue.

Racial distrust has long characterized the Balkans. Bulgars hate the Turks and have something bordering on contempt for the industry of the South Slavs in general.

Built on the ruins of an old Turkish village, Sofia, the Bulgar capital, is becoming a westernized city.

And yet, during my recent stay in Sofia, I felt the modern exterior was but a thin veneer covering a semi-Asiatic, peasant civilization. Nearly 80 percent of Bulgaria is agricultural.

Although elementary education has been made obligatory, nearly half Bulgaria's women, one fourth of the men, are illiterate.

Crushed in the World War, peace left the country with only 48,000 square miles, gave southern Dobruja to Romania, other districts to Yugoslavia, Macedonia to Greece and denied the nation a frontage on the Aegean Sea.

"Compensated by Humiliation"

For sacrificing the best in its manpower, Bulgaria was compensated at Versailles by humiliation, loss of some of its most fertile lands, and the prohibition to exceed a standing army of 20,000 troops and 3000 frontier guards.

After Bulgaria's crushing defeat in the World War, the prestige of the monarchy was seriously undermined. King Ferdinand was forced to abdicate in favor of his son, the present King Boris.

I was able to detect neither very great enthusiasm for the monarchy nor much resentment against it.

Although the Bulgarian Royal House has intermarried with that of Italy (King Boris to Princess Giovanna of Italy in 1930), the country's political affairs are more pro-German than pro-Italian. Bulgaria's trade at present is chiefly with Germany—her government is Fascist.

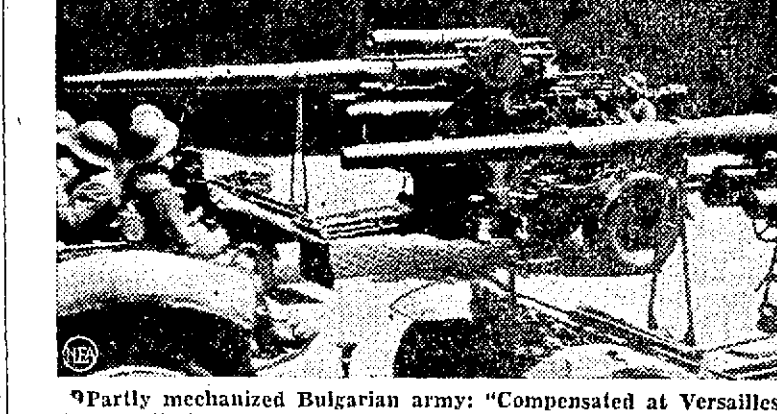

Bulgaria can supply resources which Germany needs badly. Copper, iron, aluminum, lead, zinc, manganese, gold and large amounts of food for export.

"German manufactured goods for Bulgarian raw materials" is a trade axiom in Bulgaria. Which may point the way to the future.

The electricity tree of central India is one of the oldest growths in nature. Leaves are so full of electricity that you receive a shock if you touch them, and the tree influences magnetic needles 20 feet away.

Bulgar recruits swear allegiance: "Neither very great enthusiasm for the monarchy nor much resentment against it."

"Partly mechanized Bulgarian army: 'Compensated at Versailles by humiliation . . . and the prohibition to exceed 200,000 troops.'"

Independence Is Price India Asks

Gandhi Demands British Declaration Before End of War

WARDHA, India. —(A)—Mahandas K. Gandhi Wednesday demanded of Britain a "declaration to free India from bondage" as the price for solution of India's constitutional crisis.

"I would like to suggest that no solution is possible unless an acceptable India is forthcoming," the leader of millions of Indians asserted.

His statement was made in comment on the declaration Sunday by the Marquess of Linlithgow, viceroy of India, of Britain's firm stand in the Indian crisis.

Six provincial governments have resigned and two others have announced their intention of following suit in protest against Britain's refusal to discuss Dominion status for India until after the European war.

"Once a declaration to free India from bondage, not in stages, but at once, is made an interim solution will be easily found, Gandhi said.

Negro Arrested for Patterson Robbery

Johnny Lee Brown Confesses, Police Chief Copeland Announces

Police Chief Sweeney Copeland announced the arrest Thursday of Johnny Lee Brown, 22-year-old Hope negro, for the robbery of Patterson's Cash store, East Second street, last Saturday night of approximately $75 in merchandise.

Copeland said the negro, held in the city jail, confessed to the Patterson robbery and also to robbing the homes of Nolan Lovell and Jack Sowell. The Lovell home was entered twice, about six weeks ago, and last Saturday. The Sowell home was robbed about a week ago.

Copeland said that most of the loot taken in the residential robberies had been recovered, and that part of the Patterson store loot also had been recovered.

The investigation is not closed and there possibly will be other arrests, Copeland said. The police and sheriff's offices are working jointly on the case.

Negro Boy Hurt When Struck With a Pipe

Police said Thursday that a negro boy, "Streamline" Fozel, 14, was struck over the head with a pipe and injured Wednesday night in a fight with a white youth named McClanahan.

Police said the fight started in an alley near Sanger theater and ended at the rear of Robinson's department store when the negro boy was struck with the pipe.

No arrests had been made at noon Thursday. The negro boy is not hurt seriously, police said. The fight resulted from a quarrel over 10 pennies the negro won in a "matching" game.

Nazis Say English, Jews Fired Blast; Suspect Russians

British Deny It, Saying Russians "Know About Such Things"

A NARROW ESCAPE

Blast Destroys Beer Hall Just After Hitler's Departure

BERLIN, Germany. —(A)—Adolf Hitler, safe behind the walls of his new chancellery in Berlin, Thursday viewed photographs of the first officially disclosed serious attempt to kill him since he assumed power in 1933.

Meanwhile the Reich's tremendous police force combed the nation for the perpetrators of Wednesday night's explosion in a Munich beer cellar which would have buried the fuhrer under nine feet of debris had he not left the beer hall putsch anniversary observance earlier than customary.

The blast came a few minutes after Hitler left to entrain for Berlin. It killed seven of his veterans followers and wounded more than 53, some gravely.

The British secret service and the Jews were openly charged with the attempt on the fuhrer's life.

An original reward of $200,000 for information leading to the seizure of the guilty persons was increased Thursday to $240,000 by unknown additional offer.

None of the high Nazis who accompanied Hitler for the annual celebration was reported among the killed and injured.

(British official sources scoffed at charges that the British secret service and the Jews were responsible. A British spokesman declared: "Doubtless the gentlemen who engineered the Reichstag fire of 1933 know how to do those things.")

U. S. Uncertain

WASHINGTON. —(A)—The Department of State, Secretary Hull said Thursday, is awaiting official diplomatic reports of the Munich bombing before deciding whether to send congratulations to Reichfuhrer on his escape.

Story of Blast

BERLIN, Germany. —(A)—Adolf Hitler escaped possible death or serious injury by a few minutes Wednesday in an explosion which had completed a fighting war speech.

The terrific blast brought down the ceiling of the spacious room, killing six and injuring more than 60 among the old Nazi leaders who had come together to celebrate the famous putsch in 1923 that failed. Hitler, himself, was safe on an armored train speeding toward Berlin when the blast occurred.

The men killed were veterans of Hitler's party who now are the aristocracy of the Nazi movement. Authorities asserted that none of the distinguished leaders of Nazidom was among the dead or injured.

Propaganda Minister Goebbels, Deputy Party Leader Hess, Minister of the Interior Frick, Julius Streicher, Robert Ley and Sister Pia—the only woman who was among Hitler's old butlers—who had attempted the party's anniversary celebration.

But as far as could be learned several hours after the blast, all either had left with Hitler or departed shortly after he had stepped into his car in Rosenheier street at the conclusion of his address.

$240,000 Reward

After the confusion subsided some what, authorities said there were clues that the blast had been arranged by "foreign agents." Great excitement was said to exist in Munich, and extraordinary security measures were ordered throughout the Reich. The government offered a 600,000 mark (about $240,000) reward for the persons responsible—one of the largest rewards in European history.

The explosion apparently came from above in the hall in which Hitler and other old guard Nazis planned the 1923 "beer cellar" putsch. One of the hall administrators told the Associated Press by telephone that a "terrific charge" of explosive had been set off either in an upper room or under the floor of the upper room.

Hitler had been out of the room for some minutes but old followers had lingered to discuss his address in which he had cited England and boasted that the German people was united as never before.

"Without any preliminary sound or other warning," the beer hall proprietor said, "there came a tremendous explosion which caused the ceiling to fall in a terrific roar."

There were screams and the air was filled with dust and an acid smell. Bodies lay under the debris and there was a great struggle as the injured tried to struggle free and the uninjured tried to find a way out.

Night Vision Is Related to Diet

People in Europe are worrying nowadays about their ability to see in the dark. The blackout, which is now the rule in London, Paris, Berlin and other foreign cities, has made them realize the importance of making their way about in darkness.

There is a well-established relationship between the amount of vitamin A in the diet and ability to see well at night. Before our eyes become adapted to the dark there is a short period when everything looks black. Adaptation to darkness is almost complete in an hour.

During the first World War it was discovered that soldiers had to have a sufficient amount of vitamin A to avoid night blindness. Since then, tests have been developed to determine whether there is deficiency in vitamin A and whether night blindness is present. At the same time, studies are being made on the ability of people to detect differences in color at night. The cleanness with which any object is seen depends of course on the surrounding objects and on the background. Color is seen more easily if set off by illumination.

Red and yellow can be seen more clearly on a white background, and green is seen better on a black background. On nights when there are no shadows because of absence of the moon, it is harder to judge distance. There is also a difference in the brightness of colors at night. In day-light yellow is the brightest color.

At night, green is more easily seen than yellow, blue and red a fact which anyone can find out for himself by walking in a garden at night.

She Wasn't Busy Enough

CLAREMORE, OKLA. —(AP)—A tall, gray-haired woman who found herself lonely after the death of her husband operates a free employment agency in her brick home here.

Dr. M. H. Gordon was a physician. After he died in 1935, his wife "missed the constant day and night ringing of the telephone." Their two sons were away in school.

"The business my husband left me didn't take up all my time, so I started this employment agency," she related.

She manages two dairy farms, a milk bottling plant and several business properties here. "But they don't keep me busy enough," she laughed. "So I became a clearing house for people needing jobs and people needing someone to work. Most of these I have placed—and they are in the hundreds—have been in the network and similar positions." And she added, she's never charged a cent for the services.

Armistice Day Ceremony

An Editorial, by Norman Kahl
It seems like yesterday—that wild day of Nov. 11, 1918, when all of America let loose in a mad frenzy of joy that didn't die down until the fall of 1929.

It wasn't yesterday. It was 21 years ago. But 21 years isn't so long, as history runs.

We would like to think that war never happened at all—that it was just a nightmare the whole world got all at one time.

But it happened all right. Twenty-one years ago today that other war ended after four years that almost bankrupted the entire world. Eight million little white crosses are strewn all over Europe and America, and several times that number of motemans wonder why.

This is the day for the United States to examine the ledger of that First World War—a sinister journal written in blood and red ink. The United States was in the war only one and a half years of the four, and during that time 126,000 men were sacrificed. About 50,000 were killed in action; the others died of diseases or were killed in other ways. In addition, 234,000 American soldiers were wounded and 4500 were taken prisoners or were missing when the war ended.

What the war cost this country in money will never be accurately computed. The figures are too astronomical for the average person to understand. They run into many times more the amount of actual currency changing hands in this country today.

The latest estimate on America's bill for the war was made in 1934, and was set at $11,765,000,000. This does not include the war debts of approximately $13,000,000,000 owed us by other nations. That amount may as well be added to the total cost. Over $400 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

Those figures are a phase as economists can get to the actual cost of the war. What it cost this nation in the way of economic depression is a matter of wide speculation. Dr. Frank Dickinson, of the University of Illinois, puts this figure at $200,000,000,000, or $1600 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

Should the United States get into the Second World War? The men beneath these white crosses are beyond giving America advice. But the crosses themselves and the long rows of figures on the debit side of our national ledger tell a far more eloquent story than any statesman today could tell.

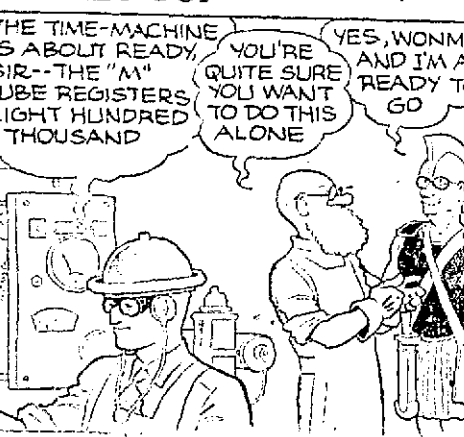

Take a tour through the nearest veterans hospital to find out what the broken, crippled inmates think about war. You won't need to ask them, just look at them. These are the answers to the Armistice Day question.

Why start now to build another monument to another unknown soldier?

Prayer

Prayer is the soul's sincere desire, Unuttered or expressed, The motion of a hidden fire That trembles in the breast, The falling of a tear, The upward gleaming of an eye, When none but God is near, Prayer is the simplest form of speech That infant lips can try; Prayer, the sublimest strains that reach The Majesty on high, Prayer is the Christian's vital breath, The Christian's native air; His watchword at the gates of death, He enters heaven by prayer, O Thou by Whom we come to God, The Life, the Truth the Way, The path of prayer Thyself has trod, Lord, teach us how to pray.

"Ladies, do you know that some of these leaves you have gathered are poison ivy?" she asked.

And she wasn't fooling. She invited the trespassers to come inside and wash their hands and faces with strong soap, supposed to be an antidote for poison ivy.

THE PAYOFF

By JERRY BRONFIELD

NEA Service Sports Writer

A championship football team according to popular fancy has to have everything from two or three lines to triple-threat waterboys, but most important of all is one or more blocking backs.

Every good club has at least one. You can't recall a great outfit which didn't have one.

Although running guards have taken over some of the duties formerly assigned blocking backs, there are numerous situations where guards cannot be as effective.

At the end of the 1938 season, Tennessee's undefeated Orange Bowl champions showed their appreciation by electing Sam Bartholomew captain for 1939. Bartholomew is the blocking beauty of Maj. Robert Reese Neyland's backfield. Although he is not exceptionally large, Bartholomew's speed and crisp technique enable him to do the job as it should be done.

In the Volunteers' case, George Cadore, Bob Fox, Len Coffman and Johnny Butler have all kinds of help because Bob Suffridge and Ed Moskinski, guards, are as formidable as any pair in the land when it comes to committing mayhem on an opposing end or line backer.

Hitler Hoffman Makes Big Trojan Horse Run Rapidly

Southern California, practically a sinecure to tackle Tennessee in the Pasadena Rose Bowl, Jan. 1 is fortunate in having a back like Bob Hoffman in the role of star knocker-downer. He is the finest blocking back on the Golden Slope.

A capable blocker can bounce a defensive player aside going through the line of scrimmage and retain his puns for a downfield assignment. Hitler Hoffman does that for the Trojans.

Mighty Michigan fondly refers to its quarter-back, Forest Evashevski, as "The One-Man Gang." Evashevski really takes 'em out. He played tackle in high school, a position at which body contact is its toughest.

The 200-pound Detroit boy is the best blocking back the Maize and Blue has in a decade.

Viewing with Evashevski for the reputation as the most formidable blocking back in the Western Conference is Frank Zadworny who has plenty of speed to go with his 195 pounds. He is especially valuable because of the slick way in which he operates on a weak side reverse.

Most blocking backs lug the leather well, too, when giving the opportunity. It isn't often that Zadworny carries but his average for the campaign is almost six yards a crack.

Sacker Sitko Lives up to Notre Dame Tradition

In view of the fact that Cornell lost practically its entire 1938 line much of the credit for the Big Red's spectacular performances goes to Walt Matuszewski, junior blocking quarterback who is regarded as the best in the east.

True to Notre Dame tradition, Quarterback Steve Sitko is a blocker par excellence and he's practically all of this year's edition of the Irish.

Will Mullerweg takes 'em out for Southern Methodist.

Hal Whitman leads the way for Yale.

The 185-pound Dick Pavor's blocking, line-backer and place-kicking make him a standout in the Oklahoma backfield.

A few days before Northwestern opened its season against Oklahoma, Lynn Waldy of worry to intimates that his biggest worry was in replacing Bernie Jefferson, Negro block ing back.

The Wildcats failed to come up with the replacement immediately, and you know what happened to them in their engagements with Oklahoma and Ohio State.

A football team simply doesn't get anywhere without a blocking back.

Allies Like U.S. Type of Warbirds

And Grover Reminds U.S. of Paul Jones' "City of Flint Case"

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — British and French airplane orders coming after the lifted embargo will be passed around among manufacturers where they will do the most good for Yankee preparedness at the same time they get results for the Allies.

Here is a sample of what will be done. The French have taken a strong liking to the hot little Curtis pursuit plane, known as P-36. They say it is out-fighting the much feared German Messerschmitts, which were held up as tips among fighters when the war started. Likely the French would prefer to buy about all the Curtis plant can produce. However the army has prior orders with Curtis plant for a faster and handier plane than the P-36. It is called the P-40.

The French will have to shop around among other factories. That won't be such a hardship. A half dozen other plane makers have submitted plans to the army and navy for ships considered only a shade less effective than P-40.

Will Cause Expansion

The Army-Navy munitions board won't be able exactly to tell the French and British where they must buy but forces of circumstances will compel them to buy from plants which could not be boosted to mass production by U. S. orders alone.

Incidentally, it will put money in the pockets of some of the plants which heretofore have been less well-heeled. Then they too can experiment on better and better planes.

And, incidentally, long before repeal of the embargo was voted by the senate, the French had placed additional orders with American plane manufacturers—on a "soon as" basis. The British, more fearsome of creating a backfire against repeal, appear to have withheld.

Olds and Ends

Historical note: U. S. hero Paul Jones once put the U. S. in practically the same position as Germany now is with respect to the capture of a city of Flint, Jones captured three British merchantmen and stowed them away at Bergen, Norway, which then belonged to Denmark.

The Danes, shivering under British guns, surrendered the ships to the British and we Yankees yelled like everything. The Danes, barked at and aft, offered to pay us something but not as much as we asked, so we refused the offer. We never collected anything.

The French have a word for it. They describe the newly shaping neutrality as "neutrality bienveillant." It seems to mean Neutrality—with a wish for the best. Probably the most unsound of all senators is Pradier of North Dakota. Even in the piping times of peace he was almost never seen to smile and now is doubtless farther from a smile than ever. To him, repeal of the embargo is not a step toward war but a running jump.

To Mrs. Roosevelt has fallen the job of lightening the burdens of the President, now that he is so pressed with war problems. Diplomatic dinners have been abandoned by the White House for the winter. Receptions will go on as usual.

Replacing the dinners will be afternoon musicales and teas. Mrs. Roosevelt can handle them all by herself and the President doesn't have to show up at all. It saves him time and energy. It imposes more burdens on Mrs. Roosevelt, but when energy and endurance are needed, she has a boundless supply.

Maybe you can remember away back when Hitler was just an anarchist upstart who would soon get what was coming to him.

HISTORY GOES NORTH

ARCTIC OCEAN

A LOOK at the map—and at history—gives added importance to developments in the region around the Baltic Sea. Russia surges west, toward domination of the Baltic area and toward achievement of her centuries-old dream of ice-free Russian ports on the Atlantic Ocean and North Sea. Germany has her hands full with Britain and France. The small Baltic states can not resist. But the larger Scandinavian countries have their backs up. They don't want war with Russia, they are willing to make concessions, but they will not surrender to Soviet domination. Shunted into the news background during the last few years, the Baltic region regains its historic importance with the swift strokes of Russian diplomacy-aggression. Events there may decide the turn of the present war. History goes North!

Railroads
Ice-locked ports.
Ice-free ports.
Naval bases.
Fortified lines.
Fortified areas.
Air bases.

NORWAY (pop. 2,810,000) and Sweden (pop. 6,210,000), both neutral in the World War, are smack in the path of Russian expansion to the Atlantic.

Ambition of the Czars was a Russian port at some point like Narvik. Achievement would not only doom independence of progressive Norway and Sweden but would also pose a new threat to the British Empire. Against the Russian menace, Sweden can pit a well trained army of almost a million men, one of the best equipped forces in Europe. Norway is practically unarmed.

Lumber and iron ore are the chief exports and the industrial backbone of the two countries. Three-fourths of Sweden's iron ore goes to Germany; the Nazis must have it to wage war. Cutting off the supply route would be fatal to the Reich.

FINLAND (pop. 3,667,000) had autonomous status under the Czars, drove out the Russian overlords in 1918. She could put an army of 300,000 against the Soviets. Russia's demands on Finland include: 1—The Soviet-Finnish border between the Gulf of Finland and Lake Ladoga to be moved about 25 miles farther north of Leningrad, second largest Russian city. 2—Finland to lease Russia a small area near the entrance to the Gulf of Finland, probably Hangoe. 3—The "exchange" of islands in the gulf, probably Finnish Hogland, Lavansari and others. 4—Finland to disarm fortified positions opposite Leningrad. 5—The Soviet-Finnish non-aggression pact to be "reinforced."

Russia would cede Finland an area north of Lake Ladoga twice as great as that lost by Finland opposite Leningrad, and would drop objections to Finland's fortification of the Aland Islands.

WILL Russia (pop. 170,000,000) force her demands on Finland to the point of war? Is Russia ready for war? Most experts answer "No" to both questions.

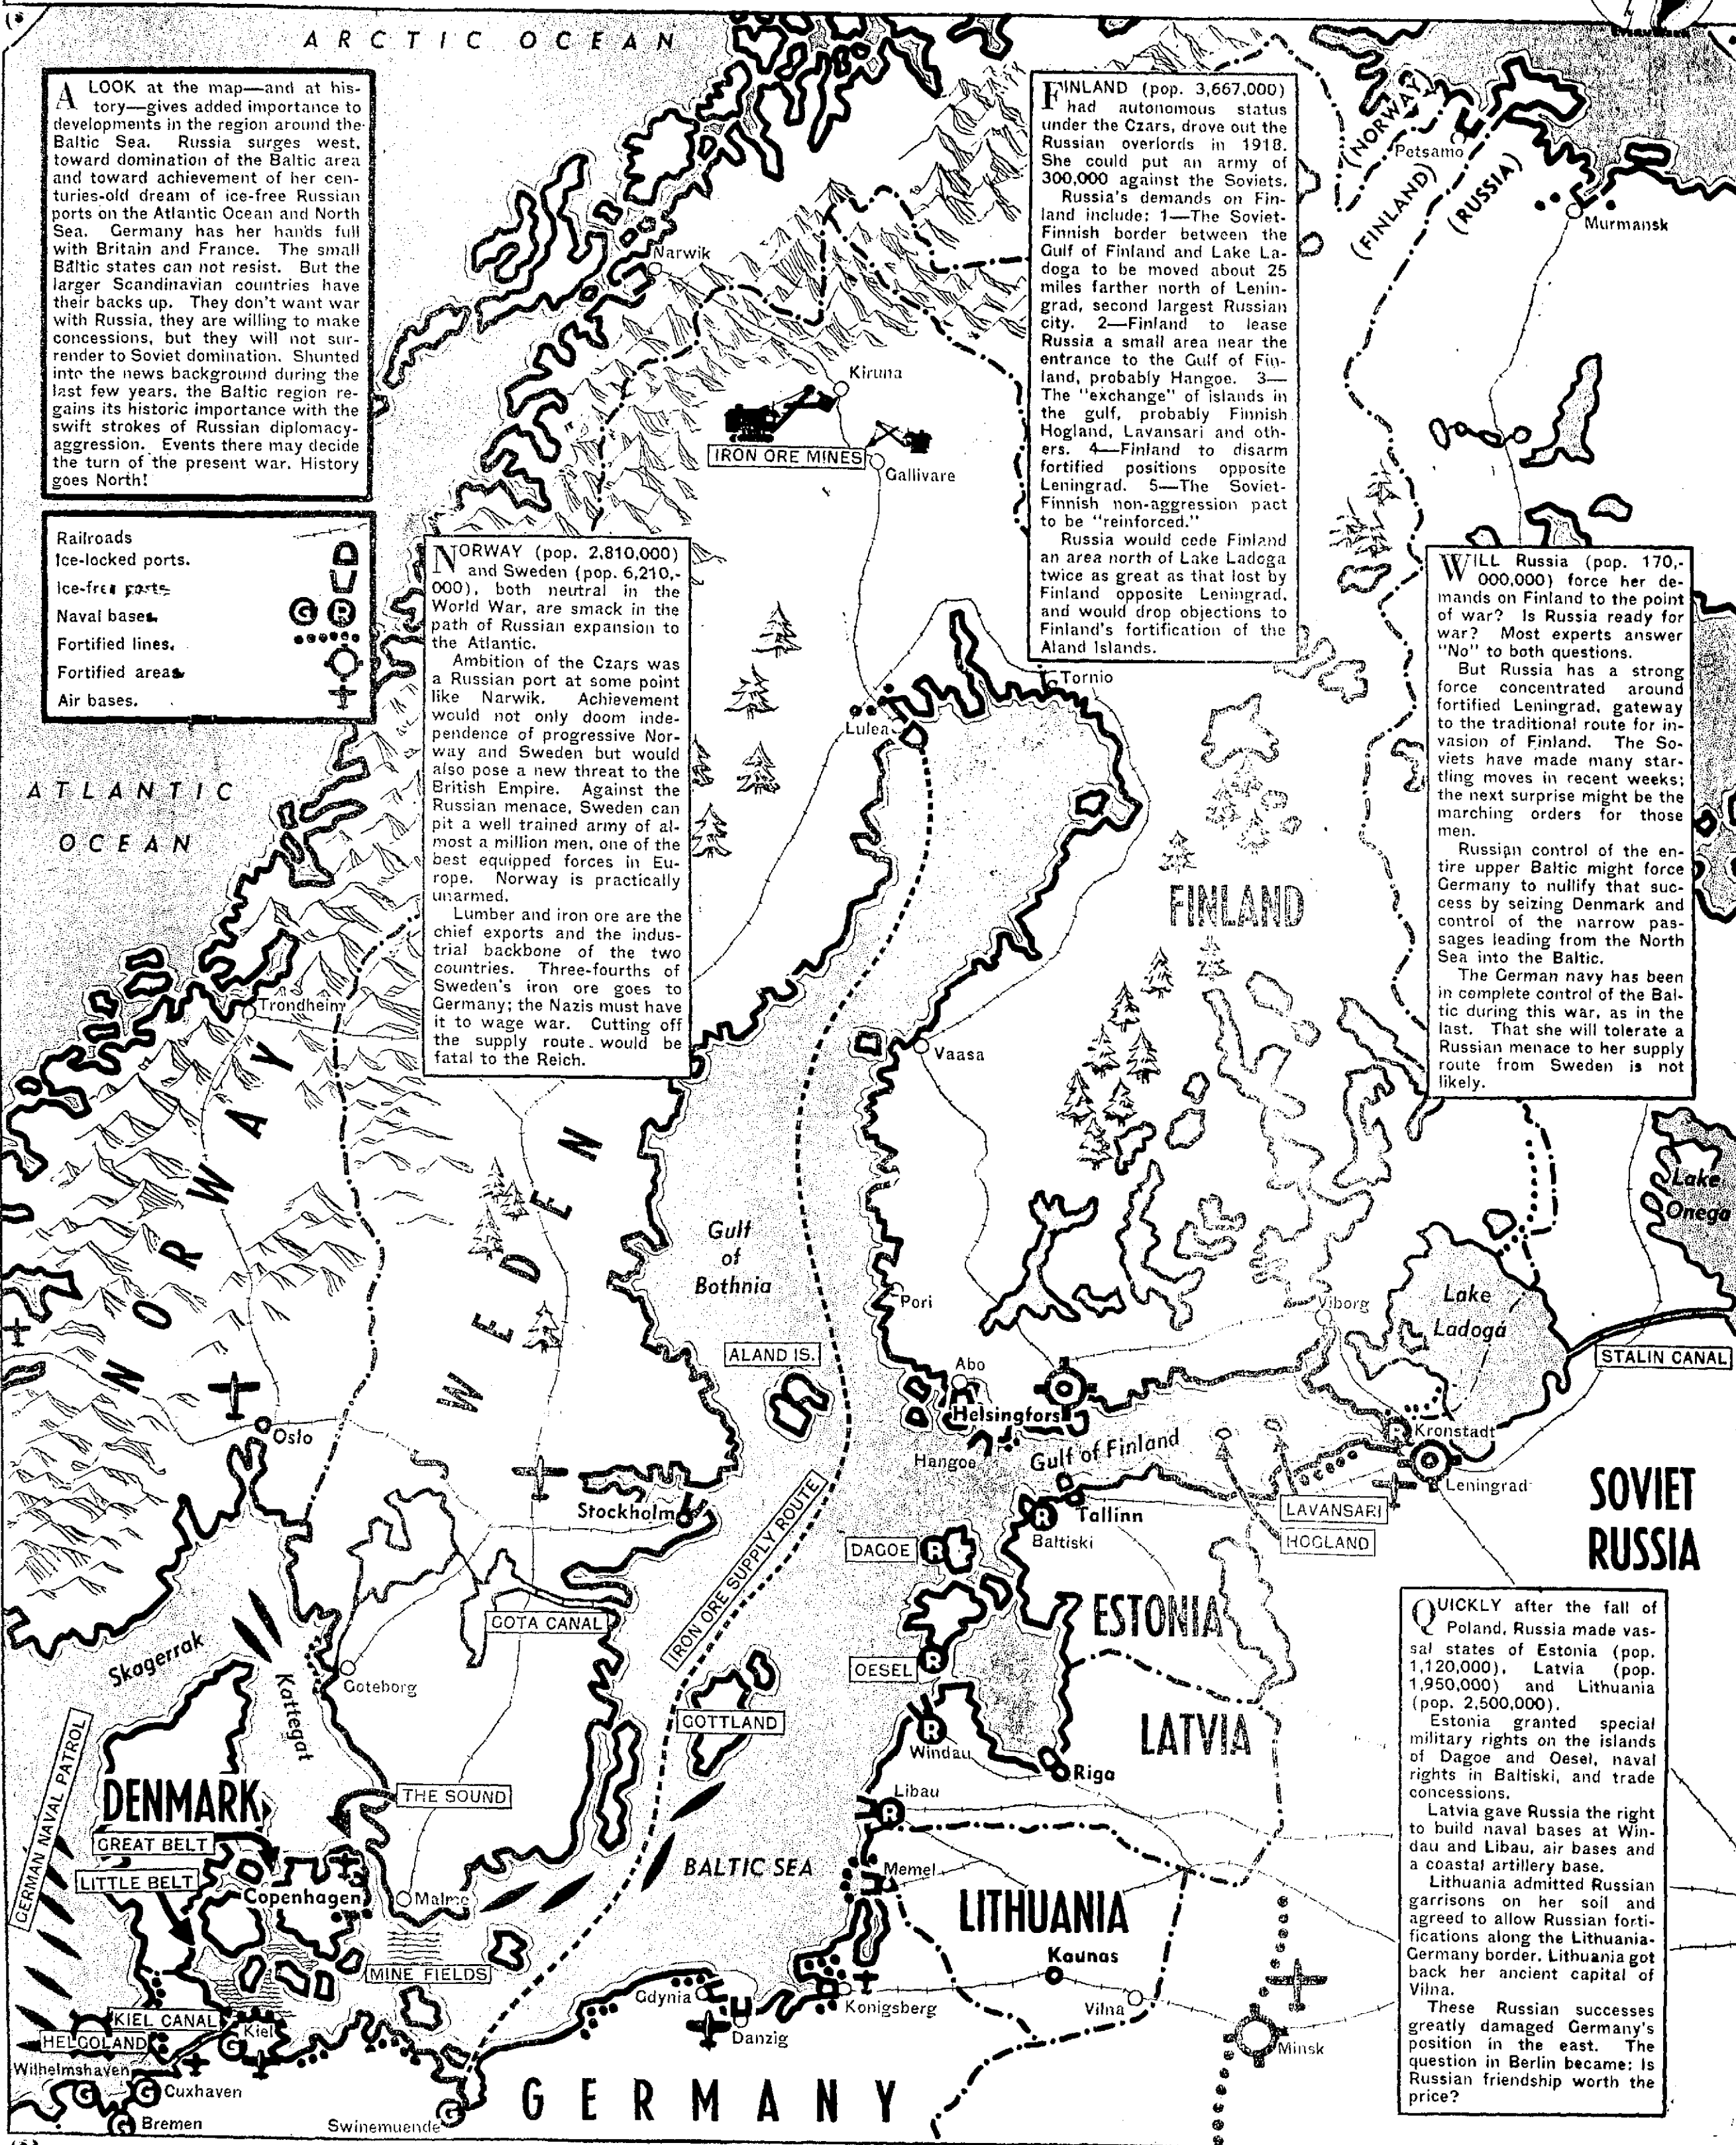

But Russia has a strong force concentrated around fortified Leningrad, gateway to the traditional route for invasion of Finland. The Soviets have made many startling moves in recent weeks; the next surprise might be the marching orders for those men.

Russian control of the entire upper Baltic might force Germany to nullify that success by seizing Denmark and control of the narrow passages leading from the North Sea into the Baltic.

The German navy has been in complete control of the Baltic during this war, as in the last. That she will tolerate a Russian menace to her supply route from Sweden is not likely.

QUICKLY after the fall of Poland, Russia made vassal states of Estonia (pop. 1,120,000), Latvia (pop. 1,950,000) and Lithuania (pop. 2,500,000). Estonia granted special military rights on the islands of Dagoe and Oesel, naval rights in Baltiski, and trade concessions. Latvia gave Russia the right to build naval bases at Windau and Libau, air bases and a coastal artillery base. Lithuania admitted Russian garrisons on her soil and agreed to allow Russian fortifications along the Lithuania-Germany border. Lithuania got back her ancient capital of Vilna. These Russian successes greatly damaged Germany's position in the east. The question in Berlin became: Is Russian friendship worth the price?

Map on Mercator's projection, northern areas slightly distorted. Distances from Minsk to Murmansk about 1050 miles. Minsk to Kiel about 700 miles.

In addition to the many magical effects and illusions, The Great Virgil will present his mad-merry gang of spooks, goblins, and ghouls; a feature that he is using throughout America to crowd the largest theatres and auditoriums.

Six dazzling sets of scenery, dozens of beautiful costumes, special lighting equipment and tons of equipment are used in the presentation of this fantastic mystery spectacle.

If you have not had the good fortune of seeing Houdini, Thurston Keller, or Herman, the Great Masters of yesterday, don't feel disappointed as you now have the opportunity to see them all re-incarnated in the appearance of The Great Virgil, the supreme magic master of the present.

The Great Virgil has spent a lifetime developing this extraordinary mystery and among the many breathtaking acts to be seen here will be: The Vanish of "Simba," the real live African Lion, The Beautiful Hindoo Princess Asleep in Mid-Air, An

with Major Hoople Quarrels on Air Problem of Radio

Must Decide What Should Be Free, and What Paid for

By PRESTON GROVER
WASHINGTON — The radio industry is confronted with a tough public relations problem since it adopted the code under which it refuses to sell time for the broadcasting of controversial speeches.

John L. Lewis and his Congress of Industrial Organizations and the group interested in Father Coughlin's broadcast are piling up complaints. Particularly has the CIO charged the National Association of Broadcasters, sponsor of the new code, with an attempt to destroy freedom of speech.

For the broadcasters, it is a thorny case. The announced that their purpose was to protect freedom of speech, not to destroy it. They proposed in their code, effective Oct. 1, to do two things:

1. Sell no more time for discussion of controversial issues (except to politicians in political campaigns.)
2. Organize "forums" where time would be given free to all sides to argue questions of public interest.

The station owners reserved to themselves the right to determine what are "questions of public interest."

Their position is that if they sell radio time for controversial discussions, the people with money will hog the time, to the disadvantage of people with a good case but no money.

CIO Broadcasts Ended
Here is a typical reaction. Station WJW of Akron, operated by Miss Edythe Fern Melrose, has been selling time regularly for CIO broadcasts. Under terms of the code, she has told CIO that she won't any more.

"Faint fair," says CIO and announces plans to take the case to the federal communications commission. The protest of the labor group is that air time is sold to Akron's tire manufacturers and other industrial over the country to build up public good will for their products and for industry. The labor group, however, must wait until radio awards it some free time on a "forum" where the industrialists share alike the right to hit back.

Miss Melrose of Akron's WJW says she is already giving way ten free periods of 15 minutes each daily to such organizations as the American Legion, community chest, ministerial association, WPA and Federal Housing and naturally won't have an unlimited amount of time to give away to "forums" on CIO issues.

Case of Father Coughlin
The case of Father Coughlin has not become nearly so heated out in the open but is seething underneath. Time on the air of more than 40 stations is bought for Father Coughlin's weekly speeches. Airenstein, Inc., handles the business. The National Association of Broadcasters finds Coughlin is exactly a case in point. No one would deny he talks on controversial issues.

Nor is the argument all on one side. The Coughlin broadcast is a plump piece of business for stations snaring in it. For instance, the 17 stations on the Colonial network in New England get a sum estimated as high as $50,000 a year. Yet the net work stations are members of the National Association whose code says "no."

On the other hand, the broadcaster recognizes Father Coughlin as a subject of "public interest" and is entitled to free time on the air. How much? The board of directors of the association is discussing that now, along with other questions raised by Father Coughlin's agents.

Just to help tangle up the case the

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys
If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pen and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give instant relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Strong Louisiana Team to Play Here

Yerger Squad Will Seek Seventh Straight Win Saturday

The Yerger High School football team, undefeated and unscored on this season, will seek its seventh consecutive victory here Saturday afternoon when the Tigers meet Webster Parish Training school of Minden, La.

The Louisiana team boasts of a powerful squad with only one defeat after a hard scheduled date.

The game will be played at the Yerger field and the kickoff has been set for 2:45 o'clock Saturday. One of the largest crowds of the season is expected.

Advance tickets are selling at 15 and 25 cents. Admission at the gate for games and Guernsey winning the two junior contests.

The Columbus cats were just two much for the "Blue Jays," outclassing their opponents in every department while they were swamping them to the tune of 25 to 8. Scuppernon and C. Caldwell, forwards for the Tigers, with eight and seven points each respectively, were high pointers in the game. Boyce, Columbus center, and J. Caldwell, his team mate and back guard, played bang-up games defensively—Boyce, holding the runny about 4 inch center, D. Cox in one field goal. For Guernsey, L. Calhoun, forward with 5 points, showed up best for the "Jay Birds."

In the second senior tilt, the Lady Tigers also took their game, 25 to 14. At the end of the first half the Blue Jays were leading 10 to 8; but the big star of the game, Forward Stout of the Columbus sextett, found her range early in the 3rd quarter and socked 20 of her team's 25 points before the final whistle. Edwards and Aylett, forwards for Guernsey with 6 to 7 counters respectively, showed up well for the home team.

The other games of the afternoon were fought out between the junior clubs of the two schools. Guernsey winning both fights, 14 for Guernsey and 11 for Columbus were the scores in the junior boys' games; and 13 for Guernsey, 11 for Columbus were the results in the junior girls' contest.

Anti-Repeal Vote on Arms Is Stout

Midwest Likely to be Rough on Men Who Voted for It

BY PRESTON GROVER
WASHINGTON — War correspondence from far behind the front:
Isolationist senators and house members insist that the West is going to be rough with those members voting for repeal of the arms embargo.
They reason this way: Of all sections of the country, the West is most likely to fluctuate in 1940. It isn't predominantly Republican or predominantly Democratic. A comparatively moderate portion of the vote, swinging one way or the other, will carry the election that way.
They argue, and back up their case with masses of western mail, that isolationist sentiment in the West will play old hob with the lads who voted for repeal of the embargo. They expect it to be the "balance of power" issue.
They suspect that a change in the situation in Europe might give them a big bulge or possibly wipe out their case altogether. They are less positive in their assertions as to what the issue may do in the presidential campaign.
Borah Not Dead Again
Senator Borah has been reported dead again, the third time in four years. Newspapers and press associations were deluged with calls from people who said they "heard it on the radio."
Immediately the news organizations telephoned his office to learn what was what. His staff denied it, but he wasn't in the office. We happened to be walking down the corridor with the senator when his staff rushed out on the scene to tell him he was dead again. He doesn't think it is very funny.
What Will Navy Do?
You can ask all you want to but no official source will tell you what the navy is expected to do in that new strip of "neutral water" between the three mile limit and the newly proclaimed peace zone around Americas.
We asked an official information source at the navy what a U. S. destroyer would do if it came upon a German submarine getting set to sink torpedoes into the flanks of a British fighter somewhere within the neutral zone.
"All orders in that connection are sealed and secret," he said. "I don't know what they are and don't want to learn until the war is over. The man 15 steps down the corridor knows what he won't tell you."
That would be Admiral Stark, chief of naval operations.
Congress Wants to Know
Many members of congress would like to know what the orders are.
They doubt if the navy has orders to fire on any belligerent ships within the neutral zone, no matter what they are doing. In most circumstances that would be war. Best information available is that the U. S. destroyer, seeing a belligerent submarine or warship about to sink another ship, would ask them to "move on" farther out into the Atlantic—just like a park policeman barking at a bum.
If the warship refused to move the destroyer commander would simply have to write a report about it. Then the report would course up through channels to the State Department, which would protest to the owner of the warship or submarine.
That wouldn't be as futile as it

SERIAL STORY

JOAN OF ARKANSAS BY JERRY BRONDFIELD

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER XXVI
"Dan," she whispered. "Dan... my father's money doesn't mean a thing to me any more." She touched his hand ever so slightly, but he refused to take the hint.
"In fact," she added softly, "I wish he didn't have a dime right now."
He looked down at her. "That would leave you in pretty bad shape," he said, nodding toward their captors.
She looked at Big Ed, hunched over his cards. Of all times and places at which to discover she was in love. The irony of it made her smile faintly.
"What's so amusing?" Dan asked.
She shook her head. "You might never know."
They sat for a long time without saying a word. It must have been at least 15 minutes before Joan broke the silence.
"What're you thinking of?"
"Well, if I want to lie about it, I'm thinking about the game to-morrow. If I tell the truth... I'm thinking of you."
Her heart took a flip-flop. Perhaps it wasn't so hopeless after all.
But he didn't volunteer anything further. He picked up the paper again and turned to the sports section.
"Chuck Mitchell's taking my place," he announced.
"Will he do?"
"He's okay offensively, but Slocum doesn't need offense for Pitt.
He needs defense... gobs of it.
Mitchell can be sucked in too easily on fake spinners... and Pitt'll spin him dizzy."
She nodded vaguely as Rocco's words came back to her.
"...Guys like Rhodes... dime a dozen... where would he be ... without that guy Webber...
Webber's the guy that makes 'em tick... most valuable... Webber..."

She closed her eyes as though to shut out the thought of him.
But it wouldn't work.
She got up and went to her room.
Rocco jerked his head over his shoulder. "Looks like the kid's getting the jitters."
Big Ed turned his head slowly toward Dan, stretched full length on the sofa. "Maybe... maybe not."
"Sam can take me to the city limits tomorrow, can't he?"
Ed put down his cards. "So you're bound to go to that football game, hey? Okay... you crazy idiot!"
* * *
AGAIN they kept Dan and Joan in their rooms until Sam got back the next morning, shortly before noon.
It was only a matter of hours before the game would start.
Joan looked at a magazine, but she couldn't read. Dan sat down on the sofa, got up almost immediately. He walked to the window and looked out. Big Ed watched him closely.
He wondered if he ought to look Dan up again. He looked at Dan's shoulders. The boy reminded him of a caged tiger... waiting... pacing... helpless. Big Ed almost felt sorry for him. The kid sure did want to play in that ball game in the worst way.
"Better sit down, kid," he ordered. "You ain't so likely to get into trouble then."
"You didn't by any chance bring the morning paper with you?"
Joan asked Sam.
"Now... it slipped my mind."
"Quit your kiddin'!" Ed said, but Sam didn't get it.
"Hey, boss," Sam reminded himself. "Something's wrong with the bus. It acted a little funny on the way back. Like maybe it wasn't feeding gas right. That ain't so good."
"That ain't no good at all," Big Ed flared. "I told you to keep that back in shape. Get out there and check on it in a hurry, see!"
"Sure, Ed, sure," Sam said. "Just as soon's I change my shoes. These is killing me."
"We'll be packing out here tonight... either way," Ed said meaningly, nodding toward Joan.
"You," Ed called, jerking his head toward Dan. "Maybe you better get back up there."
"It's too stuffy," Dan replied sullenly. "I'm not going to make any trouble."
Ed looked at him long and hard.
"Okay, kid... you can stay down here then. Sam, you better tie his hands, though."

would sell him any materials.
He tried to buy his supplies outside, and learned that he could not get them trucked to the scene of operations. In the end he was stumped.
Building Codes Weapons of Labor
Another possible obstacle is seen in the building codes and restrictions which prevail in many cities.
Some of these are so worded that an unfriendly city inspector could easily go through a newly completed building and order half of the work torn out and done over again.
After a few experiences with that sort of thing the local contractors could be pardoned for declining to do business with the union which brought such experiences in its train —and, since the C. I. O. is not overly popular in most official circles, it is taken for granted that the number of unfriendly inspectors would be rather large.
That obstacle may be partly lowered by the Department of Justice's anti-trust campaign in the building industry.
Arnold to Hit Restrictive Ordinances
One of the next items on Assistant Attorney General Arnold's agenda is the prevailing set of restrictive city ordinances and building codes. These presently will be attacked in court—not through grand jury work, but by injunctive proceedings.
And while the department's sole concern is to hammer prices down, if it removes some of the city ordinances in the process, the going will be just that much easier for the C. I. O.
In the long run, if the C. I. O. campaign is to get anywhere, a good many local contractors have got to be converted. The C. I. O. talking point will be that its industrial union will do away with jurisdictional dis-

But if the A. F. of L. can seal the same contractors on the idea that using C. I. O. labor will cause even more expensive picket lines, the organizing committee's work is apt to be somewhat difficult.

Man bites dogs to train them. All

Bruce Catton Says:

C. I. O. Building Trades Drive Means Labor "War to Hilt"

By BRUCE CATTON
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON — Before autumn is over the C. I. O.'s campaign to create an industrial union in the building construction industry will get into high gear.
The campaign really began early in the summer, when the United Construction Workers' Organizing Committee was set up under the chairmanship of A. D. Lewis. Since then practically nothing has been heard of it.
Some progress has been made, however. Locals exist in a number of cities—some on the west coast, some in the middle west, and a few in the east. For the most part, organization work has been handled through central C. I. O. offices rather than through the committee's own organizers.
War to the Hilt in Prospect
All of which probably means that there is not likely to be any peace treaty between the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L. very soon. The building trades are the backbone of the A. F. of L.; when the C. I. O. swings into action with a high-powered organizing campaign in that field, it is going to be war up to the hilt.
So far, the organizational campaign has brought nothing more than skirmishes between the two groups. A sample of the kind of skirmishing that has been going on appeared in Washington not long ago when a building contractor who previously had been operating with non-union labor signed up with the C. I. O. local.

Before his men got to their jobs next morning, an A. F. of L. picket line was moving around the scene of work.
Picket lines are not the only ob-
